REASON FOR ALLOWANCE

2. Claims 1-6,8-20 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reason for allowance:

The prior art fails to teach or suggest an optical navigation device comprising: a light source for illuminating a surface with a narrow bandwidth beam at an angle of illumination with respect to said surface; and a detector positioned at an angle of reflection with respect to said surface operable to receive a reflected portion of said narrow bandwidth beam, wherein said angle of reflection is substantially equal to said angle of illumination; and a filter positioned between light source and surface as claimed in claim 1.

The prior art fails to teach or suggest a system for controlling a positional pointer on a video screen of a computer using a mouse to detect relative motion with respect to a surface, said system comprising: means for generating narrow bandwidth specular reflection images, each said narrow bandwidth scatter pattern being specific to a portion of said surface over which said mouse moves; a filter located between means for generating and surface; and means for converting said specific narrow bandwidth specular reflection images into signals corresponding to relative motion between said mouse and said surface as claimed in claim 11.

The prior art fails to teach or suggest a method for determining relative motion between an optical navigation device and a surface, method comprising: providing a narrow bandwidth light beam at an angle of illumination with respect to said surface for illuminating said surface; providing a filter positioned between in the light beam; and receiving a reflected portion of said narrow bandwidth light beam at an angle of reflection with respect to said surface, such that said angle of reflection is substantially equal to said angle of illumination as claimed in claim 16.
